

NORTH TOUR

A complete contrast to the south.

Passing through Teguise, the old capital, we arrive at the highest point on the island, Peñas del Chache (671m). From this view-point, there are fabulous views of the north-east coastline and Haria (the valley of 1000 palms).

The Guinate Tropical Park, situated in the north-west of the island, is home to many tropical birds from all over the world. The parrot show is entertaining for both adults and children. The viewpoint of Guinate looks out onto the Chinijo Islands of La Graciosa, Montaña Clara and Alegranza. A tasty lunch is enjoyed in a small fishing village.

In the Jameos del Agua, the creative genius of Cesar Manrique is everywhere. He has transformed the lava tunnel and the cave into subterranean walkways, an auditorium and a volcanic museum.

We end the day with a visit to the César Manrique Foundation. Here, you have the opportunity to see how the artist adapted five volcanic bubbles into rooms of his house.

A collection of his paintings and architectural designs are also exhibited.

You will be back at your pick-up points at around 5.30pm.
